Taking advantage of the opportunity to go abroad may also come with a catch:

- racism
- depression,
- isolation and
- hopelessness for some

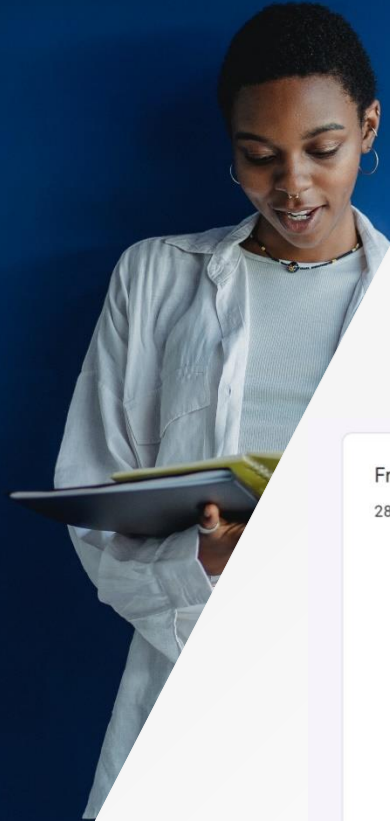

This is a real problem that Aurora cannot afford to look away. There has been several accounts of bad experiences, some quite graphic, preventing foreign students to have a meaningful experience in their host communities. Looking at the issue from a bottom up perspective may thus help us find meaningful ways to avoid the pitfalls of the past and design effective responses to address the problem.
